SALEM, January 6th, 1864

RIGHTEOUSLY ANGRY —The Union papers in California are highly indignant because that the Marysville Express—a bitter opponent of the Government, and of the war—has been selected as the advertising medium of the Army in that State. Very plain words are published in regard to the party who is responsible for such a misuse of government patronage, and though no one seems to suppose that it has happened by the fault of Gen. Wright, yet he is called upon very decidedly to stop any such thing in future. We confess that the act looks somewhat strangely, as does also the selection of the Intelligencer, at Jacksonville, for a similar purpose by the same officer, or his subordinates It is hardly possible that the hostile course of these papers can be unknown at the head-quarters of the Pacific Department, and if known it is difficult to understand why they should be favored with patronage which in part enables them to wage war against the Government Perhaps, however, it may be strategy! General Wright may think he can buy them more easily than he can fight them We wish our friends of the Appeal would observe whether the bate takes, or their incorruptible neighbor spurns the bribe If the strategy fails, some body has made a great blunder, and has done even worse by furnishing the foe with weapons and ammunition

APOSTATES —There is great complaint in several of the northern States, on account of the treachery of men, who by profession of fidelity to the Union, induced its friends to support them for high official positions. Hardly were these secured before they showed that they cared more for the Democratic party than for the country In Ohio, there are several prominent instances of this insincerity which have taught Union men a bitter but necessary lesson

In New York, the Albany Journal, commenting on this political fraud, gives the State Prison Inspector the following notice, which proves how that officer humbugged the loyal men by his deliberate, Democratic deception We hope we shall not have occasion here to make similar statements in regard to those who have been trusted in the same spirit

Mr. Tappan was elected on the Union Ticket two years since, and for a time kept faith with those who gave him his position Having, however last summer imbibed the idea that the Democracy were likely to regain possession of the State he became one of the sore of "Union" profligate who returned to their original status, and is now purchasing favor from his Democratic associates by acting with his Democratic colleague in removing Union men from office

STRANGE LOGIC —In the loyal States, the Democrats oppose with all their might, the enlistment of negroes "It is a white man's war," they say, "and no others should take part in it," as if the work done by a black soldier would not accomplish the defeat of the rebellion, as effectually as that done by the white one The latter does not complain at serving in the same field with colored troops, they have proved their fidelity, courage and ability, and their employment spares thousands to their families and their duties as citizens, who would otherwise be obliged to go to the battle field. Among all the absurd notions of the Democracy now a days, we know of none which is so supremely ridiculous as that of objecting to the use of colored troops It is utterly without foundation, save mean prejudice

SHUTTING UP HIS TREASURES —Brigham Young boasts that he can see more gold and silver from the door of his house than would equal the whole currency of the world These mines are not allowed to be opened The effect would be, according to Brigham's ideas, to bring near the City of Saints a large mining population, which he would find exceedingly hard to rule.

Arkansas Recovering

A large meeting was lately held at Little Rock at which resolutions were unanimously passed, pledging unconditional support to the Union Mr Fishback from the northwestern part of the State, made an excellent address He is reported about thirty years of age a native of Virginia, a high toned gentleman and a worthy representative of the most cultivated class in the State He was in both Conventions preceding the secession of the State, and though a Union man from the start was well posted in the secret history of the Rebellion Plot He disclosed facts very damaging to the rebels, as to the manner in which the leaders deceived and cheated the people He said

A native of Virginia and an old resident of this State, I have been one of you The anti-[illegible] has been given to my prejudices I was taught to believe, and I did believe that everything mean and [illegible] in New England was made to cheat with that the region of the people was [illegible] that their touch was contamination Fellow citizens I have seen New England and its people I have been welcomed at the house of the rich—in [illegible] without a decent coat to my back or money in my pocket I have always met the warmest southern hospitality at the houses of their middle classes, and my fellow citizens in one [illegible] of the world they have no poor I have walked with awe and condemning conscience through the [illegible] I used found at every corner of her sterile [illegible] I saw her barren hills covered with plenty I saw her sturdy sons—every one of them an educated man—hasten to shoulder their muskets and place themselves in the ranks of the defenders of their country, and I heard them make excuses for the South much in the spirit that a kind elder brother would for his wild younger brother, and I discovered, as you have, that they are not cowards. And, fellow citizens, New England is a representative of the North

This sentiment brought down the house with enthusiastic applause Mr Fishback, though a good talker, is doing something better than talking and that is raising a regiment of Arkansas Union soldiers Judge Murphy, one of the moral heroes of Arkansas, also made a good speech He is a plain old gentleman of fifty five or sixty, yet cool, calm, thoughtful and determined He is the only man—and in this way distinguished—who in the State Convention voted No! on the Secession question and stuck to it to the last He said when he gave that vote finally cries resounded from the convention and lobbies, "Hang him! Shoot him!" He was threatened very much, yet no one he says, has touched him or reproached him to his face for his course He said he knew that violence was done to men at that time for their opinions, and that arms were carried into his convention, and that menaces were used But he had deliberately made up his mind beforehand, that rather than do an act to destroy the glorious Government of the United States he would die a thousand deaths! The effect of his speech was grand It was a speech of true eloquence—the eloquence of sublime facts After other earnest and loyal speaking by citizens, and a short speech by Gen Thayer, the meeting adjourned to meet in the same place in one week when a committee is to report a constitution for a permanent Union Club

THE PORT ANGELES MISFORTUNE.—The Overland Press says there are some people "who are so heartless as to hardly suppress their rejoicing that this calamity has befallen Port Angeles, and that Mr Smith is a severe sufferer They think it will promote the chances of a removal of the Port of Entry from that place, but the people there, and the friends of the place generally including the new Collector, Dr Gunn, are confident that the Port of Entry is fixed beyond even the likelihood of its removal Dr Gunn states that the Revenue collected there is three times the amount collected at Port Townsend Whilst we do not desire to take part in the controversy that has been going on in regard to Victor Smith, yet we are free to say that there are many who have heretofore been arrayed against him, disposed, now that investigations have been made into his accounts and actions, to look upon him more favorably and regard him as 'more sinned against than sinning'"

We are glad to notice this disposition to do justice to a man who has been the subject of gross abuse the malignant source from which it came, is so likely to be wrong, that we never had much confidence in any of the charges against Mr Smith, for if he was a corrupt man, the Surveyor General would not have opposed him He fights only those who are too honest and high minded to become his confederates in fraud and iniquity We are very sure that when investigations of his accounts and actions are made, it never will be said that he "was more sinned against than sinning"

GEN ROSECRANS' VIEWS OF THE VOLUNTEER ARMY —In response to the toast of The Army and Navy of the United States, at the railroad banquet in Cleveland, Gen Rosecrans made a few remarks in relation to the efficiency of the volunteer army

In reference to the volunteer army he said that he could justly pay a high tribute to their valor and courage In that they were not excelled by any people They were also full of patriotism and at the same time free from the feelings of hatred and revenge They did not hate their enemies nor did they seek to revenge themselves on them on the battle field They fought out of pure patriotism

It was perhaps true that the discipline in the volunteer army was not as good as to satisfy all the strict requirements, but this was owing to the material composing the army Men of all classes were in all ranks in the volunteer army Ordinary distinctions of class or position were swept away and the officer everywhere found himself commanding his most intimate associates in the ranks Under such circumstances it was impossible to keep up the distinction of rank such as obtains in regular armies, and the discipline was therefore not so perfect But in the battle field everything was merged in the business of fighting Every man was fighting individually, and was his own captain if he could not find a captain to fight under

As an evidence of this he mentioned a little incident that occurred at the battle of Chickamauga An officer ran off from the field when a private of his company snatched up a musket ran after him halted him, and brought him back saying he would be d——d if he would be deserted by his officers

A CHALLENGE —Mr Leslie Coombs, of Kentucky recently took occasion in a letter to allude to Gen "Carl Schurz and his gang of freedom shriekers" as fleeing at Chancellorsville General Schurz replies through the columns of the Louisville Journal that in so speaking "Mr Leslie Coombs lies" He says he chooses the word with reluctance and regret, but Mr Coombs either knew this was false or could easily have ascertained the truth General Schurz says he is aware that this is equivalent to a challenge but he does not mean to fight a duel, as he is opposed to it on principle. He does, however propose a test of personal courage He says

"I invite him to the hospitality of my head quarter in the camp of the Army of the Cumberland I will share with him my tent, my blankets, my meals—but I invite him also to go with me personally in the next battle and not to leave me a single moment There Mr Leslie Coombs may determine whether he will have the heart to repeat that calumny, or whether it would not be better for him and more honorable to retract it

THE GOLD SPECULATIONS OF GOTHAM.—The editor of the Metropolitan Record in the following remarks is after the Jeff Davis gold gamblers of New York with a very knotty club It has for some time been supposed that agents of foreign capitalists, in sympathy with the rebellion as well as northern rebels at heart were already managing to make money by the fluctuations of the coin market, last winter it was well known that Ben Wood and certain other democratic Congressmen, by a skillful use of the telegraph, and of their knowledge of Government secrets, which their position enabled them to obtain realized by it enormous profits

Persons of long experience in Wall street have for some time been aware [illegible] in the rank of speculators in gold Few of the [illegible] bankers [illegible] strongly [illegible] attracted to the arena of speculation [illegible] the [illegible] New [illegible] and speculators in gold have nearly all [illegible] and they are all bitter enemies of the [illegible] administration They are mostly refugees from the United States [illegible] New Orleans Union men who have taken the oath [illegible] Memphis [illegible] the cut and [illegible] rebel States These men would all take the oath of allegiance after every [illegible] the defeat of Rosecrans before the [illegible] They are [illegible] all the rebellion but secretly [illegible] They will earn and make all the money they can here, but would at their cost to destroy the country whose liberal institutions afford them so many advantages In any other country they would not dare to show their faces in public and would be constantly under the eyes of the police Here they [illegible] our best hotels [illegible] openly on Change [illegible] Their wives and daughters [illegible] Fifth avenue [illegible] and enough to [illegible] brothers and sons The city is [illegible] with these detestable characters and it is about time that they were exposed to the contempt and scorn of loyal people [illegible] the battle field we can respect but traitorous sneaks who eat their bread and butter among us while all their sympathies are with the foes of the nation, are entitled to no higher feeling than contempt

SECRETARY SEWARD ON THE WAR —Secretary Seward addressed his fellow citizens of the town of Auburn New York the evening previous to the election The following is the closing portions of his speech

Fellow citizens, forty seven years ago [illegible] may use [illegible] Fifty years ago [illegible] I first [illegible] the Hudson river For forty six years [illegible] through the agency of that river, and artificial extensions of it to the lakes and the Mississippi, to fortify the Union and develop the greatness and prosperity of the American people Every succeeding year revealed new and grand and gratifying successes [illegible] policy until the year 1860 Then on my way to the National Capital I ascended the Erie canal and the Hudson river [illegible] banks [illegible] in their waters with admiration But then I saw the alarm [illegible] threatening civil war and revolution I was unable [illegible] to grasp the danger if I could and grasp it with all its magnitude and terrors What is revolution? It is the subversion of all this trade all this property and all the happiness and the substitution in its place of scenes of blood and universal desolation I said to myself—Is this to exist? It is in no case was the answer

The democratic party through the United States, which has virtually held the [illegible] Government for half a century has been overthrown by a constitutional majority in the election In the name and behalf of that party its disappointed chiefs have refused submission and resorted to civil war [illegible] party of the United States lend themselves directly or indirectly to that insurrection civil war is inevitable and [illegible] and perpetual [illegible] upon the nation That revolution will then end in [illegible] and [illegible] under a foreign conqueror What shall be done in this emergency? The answer [illegible] Present at [illegible] appeal to the patriotism of all parties and a surrender of all their [illegible] the common safety This will [illegible] Will the [illegible] knowledge that God returns to himself [illegible] the trial of our virtue [illegible] But we shall [illegible] with [illegible] the result Three months six months, twelve months, twenty four months, thirty [illegible] the fact that the democratic [illegible] of the United States are [illegible] in the fact that the rise [illegible] the true spirit to the [illegible] Not as soon as our impatience [illegible] but as soon we may [illegible] The democratic masses discarding leaders have entered the light of patriotism They are in the field they are in the Cabinet they are [illegible] fighting generously [illegible] to make the election of Abraham Lincoln President of the United States from 1861 to 1865 a fixed irresistible fact It will be [illegible] The country is saved and there remains nothing left to complete the great [illegible] that [illegible] long [illegible] the submission of the insurgents [illegible] And what [illegible] may [illegible] A peace that establishes [illegible] over the [illegible] free republican [illegible] the nation [illegible] the American nation against equally the evils of internal anarchy and foreign aggression The angels of Heaven might tune their harps to the symphony of such a peace

HENRY WARD BEECHER —The Democracy have taken special pains for the last few years to denounce this distinguished and popular clergyman Its organs have exhausted their dictionaries in covering his name and fame with abuse Since his return from Europe, however, where his eloquent services in behalf of the Union aroused the proud admiration of every American heart, he is beginning to be appreciated and praised by those who have attacked him most bitterly The New York World, in an article just published, says "when the blaze of enthusiasm which just now irradiates his talents, imparting to them a lustre which they rather reflect than emit, has died away with the passing sensation, and his recent exhibition of them is viewed apart from any factitious glare the sober judgment of sound observers will still admit that Mr Beecher has achieved an oratorical triumph of which any of the best popular speakers of his time might reasonably be proud and which none of them has as yet, equalled" The World concludes its remarks as follows

We feel that we but utter the common sentiment of the generous part of our countrymen in expressing our sense of Mr Beecher's services to the Union cause on the other side of the water He has [illegible] in spoken terms [illegible] of his political opponents in this country when he [illegible] and the zeal with which he has sought to turn the tide of prejudice in favor of the Union cause we recognize the spirit of a patriot Would to God that always as in this case, party animosities could cease at the water's edge, and that every American who goes abroad would feel that his country and that all his fellow citizens are bound to him by the ties of a common patriotism!

IF MIGHT BE [illegible] —Dr Henry known as Anthony, prays that some power would enable him to see himself as others see him We hope the request will be granted He would get such a practical view of total depravity, that if he has a lingering spark of shame left he could not help abhorring himself and possibly he might repent a little if there is any sackcloth or ashes in his vicinity and if he should be for a little while spared the just fate of his namesake, whose example he follows so faithfully

"NO DAMAGE DONE" AT CHARLESTON —While Grant was besieging Vicksburg rebel reports continually announced that nobody was hurt by his bombarding They detailed how many shells burst in a day over the city, and while they admired the display and ridiculed waste marvelled themselves that such storms of iron could be poured into a place and yet do no harm People at a distance took up the strain and wondered and philosophized about the phenomenon until it seemed a pity that all cities could not be indulged in bombardments so harmless were they and yet so fine to see and hear But after Vicksburg fell, the truth showed its face contorted with long agony the grinning mask having fallen The people had been living in caves The city was a ruin Its buildings were battered —hundreds of citizens had been killed in the streets, which were plowed into windrows by the solid shot and piled with the fragments of the shells

From this Vicksburg lesson we may infer that the repeated rebel assurances that Gillmore's shot fired into Charleston do no harm are not to be relied on implicitly True, Charleston is a sparsely settled city—its more aristocratic quarters are "fields in the town with gardens surrounding mansions" It is not like New York or Boston or San Francisco, with closely compacted dwellings composing blocks by the mile Still Gillmore is not throwing his shot at random With the finest artillerists in the world and the best artillery ever made, it is far more probable that every shot goes near its target, and that building after building has already tumbled before them The rebels themselves confess that on the night before Christmas, and on that merry day itself when Gillmore's shells were flying thick and fast, "a fire broke out" and from the falling wall there were "some casualties" Remembering Vicksburg we are not disposed to believe that 130 shells fell into even so straggling a city as Charleston within 20 hours time, without leaving a terrible impression We shall not probably get the truth until Charleston surrenders nor do we believe that it will be a very long time to wait for that event —Bulletin

THANKSGIVING WAS SPENT AT THE SING SING STATE PRISON —Thanksgiving was celebrated in an interesting and appropriate manner, and the exercises were apparently as much enjoyed by the convicts as the additional liberty and good fare allowed them on this welcome holiday In the morning they met in the chapel where the Chaplain read the proclamation of the President and Governor, and that of George Washington issued seventy six years ago, and a few selections from the Scriptures Excellent singing was furnished by a choir of prisoners, and a hymn sung by the choir was composed by one of the resident convicts The Warden then addressed them On this occasion he said, that there was generally found one person in his audience who felt great interest in his words and that person was the fortunate man who, by the grace he was annually permitted to exercise by the Executive, was the recipient of a pardon It was often difficult to select, but this year he was sure all would agree that he had made the right choice The name of a convict was then announced by the Warden, who had been confined in prison for twenty one years and five months and in [illegible] here for twenty one years and two months During all this time he had never been reported for misconduct He was now sixty seven years old Every one present was deeply affected The old man knew nothing of his pardon until his name had been proclaimed After the services the men were permitted the liberty of the yard, where they indulged in various sports The Thanksgiving dinner was the event of the day, and every prisoner found and opportunity to satisfy his long tempted appetite

WARNING TO DISLOYAL DEMOCRATS —The speech made by General Dix on his inspection tour of the Boston harbor fortifications is one of the most apt and beautifully worded speeches of the war It is an unconditional war speech patriotic in the truest sense of the word The following extract shows the General fully understands the sentiment of the people

The man who in the hour of his country's greatest peril, shrinks away from her standard, or who gives encouragement to the public enemy either by a sullen inaction or by open resistance to measures necessary to a successful conduct of the war need not thereafter look to the people for support (Cries of 'Good' and applause) They never, as our political history attests, forget infidelity to the country or even lukewarmness in its service (applause) in seasons of public disaster And the instinct of parties does not often lead them to place at their head men in whose public conduct there can be found no augury of success (Renewed applause)

THE CONTRABANDS AND THE PROCLAMATION —The Superintendent of Contrabands at Fort Pickering, Memphis, furnishes the following

During the month of August last, a negro woman and child came into camp and asked aid She said she had run away from Noxubee county Mississippi as she had heard of the freedom granted to the slaves by Lincoln, and that she got the information from her brother, who could read, and that he read it in a Southern newspaper Being a house servant, she heard the planters talk about the war and read about the war, and then she would go out to the negro quarters and tell her brother, and he would slip off in the night and tell the negroes on other plantations and get back in time for the morning call for work She said that ever since the fight at Sumter on the breaking out of the war the negroes were informed of what the North were doing and that they confidently expected to be free and were not surprised when the proclamation was issued She said that the negroes had secret societies and met in the woods and caves and had signs and grips and it was the duty of every member to inform the lodges of what conversation he had heard among the white folks

A POSTAL AGENT NEEDED —Since the office of Postal Agent for Oregon was abolished and merged in the Agency for the entire Pacific Coast we have had practically no postal superintendence either in Oregon or Washington The consequence is that from a [illegible] of considerable regular [illegible] our mail arrangements have got into something of a muddle We need an Agent for Oregon Washington and Idaho not only for restoring our old facilities but for arranging new ones in our rapidly spreading settlements The entire [illegible] east of the Mountains is either without mail facilities or very inadequately supplied the population there [illegible] and prospective is [illegible] connected in interests with the country this side [illegible] feel very sensitively the lack [illegible] and certain means of communication The Postal Agent, whose business it is to look after such matters is the [illegible] Agent at [illegible] a Californian who [illegible] the existence of the [illegible] What we need is an Agent who will reside in Oregon and from his local relations with the country will feel that he has a [illegible] interest in communication with the [illegible] responsibility to the people of his district We suggest that our Representative and Senators might [illegible] a benefit upon the [illegible] by earnest [illegible] upon the proper department the importance of this matter —Statesman

CHRONIC NONSENSE —A peace organ in this State is playing the old tune about conciliation, and says it is the only way to restore the Union Will it never be tired of such stupid folly? The rebels even, laugh at its absurdity They are for war—deadly, ferocious and desperate—and are determined not to think of peace till they are compelled by the stern discipline of defeat, to see that there is no alternative but submission or ruin

SENSIBLE SLAVEHOLDERS —An eastern paper has the following

It is stated by gentlemen lately from Tennessee that at an informal meeting of thirty prominent [illegible] held there [illegible] State all but two expressed the opinion that the advantages to be derived from coming again under the National Government would more than compensate for any loss of slave property they might suffer and that therefore no remuneration should be asked from the Federal Government

Portland R A Chapter No. 3 —Regular Meeting on Thursday evening 14th inst, at [illegible] o'clock Members and sojourning companions are invited to attend

Per order of M E H P

"SOFT SODER" —A NEW YANKEE OUTRAGE The Richmond Whig has found something worse than insult and starvation in the treatment of the rebel prisoners in the hands of the Unionists It is "soft soder" To soft soder a man means, in plain English, to cajole him—the Irish word "blarney" expresses the same thing—and says the Whig "this is precisely what the Yankees are now trying to do to our prisoners and citizens in exposed districts In too many instances, we regret to say their 'soft soder' has been successful A young lady writing from Fauquier to a person in this city says that Sedgwick's corps was encamped near Warrenton until Lee's late advance, and while there the efforts to win the people over by that most dangerous of all weapons—insidious kindness, were persistent and unremitting She adds that she trembled when she saw the 'shadow of success' which attended these efforts and succeeded only by vigilance and action to counteract them Yankee warfare is merely brutal but Yankee kindness is fiendish It is the intent of the assassin the climax of hypocrisy, the sum of all crime It is soft soder"

THERE is no other way to cure diseases but by first purifying the whole system so as to create a healthy circulation.

The first medical [illegible] of the age agree with us that [illegible] disease of any extent can be cured without using such medicines as will act directly upon the blood Why many medical men have failed to cure chronic diseases is, because the medicines used have not been such as will act beneficially on the blood

The many thousands of bottles which have been used by the public, and the many gallons and barrels supplied to the physicians, warrant us in saying that the last two years we have been more successful with our Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup in curing hopeless cases of chronic diseases than have any other remedies in the hands of physicians, or before the public

It is now admitted that no combination known to the profession, acts so promptly upon disease as our SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP.

BREAKING UP OF THE ICE. — The steamer Tenino, Capt Turnbull, left here at 10 a yesterday, with the mails and several passengers for Fort Vancouver, and succeeded in reaching the lower wharf at that place barely long enough to throw the mail, and allow the passengers to jump on shore, but without making her lines The steamer immediately reversed her engines, and as soon as possible headed down stream and returned to this city bringing, we understand, one passenger who was not in mind to jump with the rest Mr Troup informs us that the ice above had broken up, and came down the Columbia closely packed its full width, meeting the boat just as the landing was effected, and had they by any accident been detained a moment, the boat might have been crushed Hence the brief stay made at the wharf The steamer will not attempt to make the trip to-day as it is impossible for the vast fields to get down through the narrow passages of the river without choking up several times, and it must be several days yet before the river above is entirely free from these obstructions

THE CLERK IN A QUANDARY — Yesterday morning, the clerk of a large Front street establishment, on proceeding to open, was dismayed at finding a wide piece of crape attached to the door knob Naturally inferring that his employer, to whom he is much attached had unexpectedly demised, he hesitated about removing the crape and unlocking the door as, according to custom, it would be highly improper to give the store an air of business under such melancholy circumstances While cogitating upon the intricacies of law and the impending forms peculiar to administration, who should come along but his boss, in propria persona, well and hearty. Explanations ensued, the insignia of mourning was pronounced the result of a lark, shop was opened and further meditation upon letters testamentary indefinitely postponed. May the lamp of our staunch Union friend burn bright for many a year to come, and his pitcher remain unbroken till it overflows with hope well-grounded at the Fountain of Life

AFFRAY AT THE BANK EXCHANGE.—Yesterday morning, early, an affray occurred at the Bank Exchange Saloon, between James H Lappeus, one of the proprietors of the Oro Fino Saloon, and James Dodson, keeper of a rondo table at the Bank Exchange, in which the former was shot through the fleshy part of both thighs, and the latter had the front part of his pantaloons cut with a carving knife The difficulty grew out of a game at which the parties had played during the night at the Oro Fino, the commencement of which broke up the game. Lappeus was taken care of, and is not regarded as in a dangerous condition Dodson was arrested and taken before the Recorder, who discharged him upon his own recognizance to appear for examination this morning at 10 o'clock If dame rumor is entitled to credence, the shooting was done in self defence, and under circumstances reflecting great credit on Dodson for courage and magnanimity.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTION —During the rush of the flood across First street from the foot hills yesterday, which rendered the crossings and sidewalks in many places difficult of navigation, Messrs Weeks & Gilmore constructed a neat temporary bridge near their corner, for which they were thanked by many a foot-passenger May they never be without a quarter—of tender beef.

BOUND TO HAVE HIS SLEIGH-RIDE —A very small sled, with a comparatively tall horse attached thereto "might have been seen wending" through the mud and water of First street, yesterday morning, which suggested the idea of a fully accoutred Laplander behind his fleet pets crossing the equator. The idea being connected with the sled, we failed to undertake it

FOR MONTICELLO. — The steamer John H Couch, Capt Holman, which was announced to leave yesterday, but was detained by the condition of the Columbia, we are told will leave this morning at 7 o'clock, for Monticello, and should the ice permit, will go through to the end of her mail route.

PROPOSED TRIAL TRIP.—It is in contemplation, we understand, to despatch the steamer Wilson G Hunt to the Cascades, to-morrow, providing a continuance of the present warm weather will seem to justify it. From the reported breaking up, it is evident that rains above have been plenteous and warm as here

GONE HUNTING —We understand that the steamer Pioneer has gone down the slough, with a party of gentlemen on a hunting excursion

THE hull of the late steamer E. D. Baker has been pumped out and raised

WE understand that the Industry will be towed down to day.

DENTISTRY — Dr J R Cardwell's advertisement, in another column this morning, offers the best reference in the world as to the character of his work—his patrons A man who can stand the test of such a reference, can execute work which will stand the "test of time"

EMPIRE AND PACIFIC MARKETS —Mr A H Johnson, through our advertising columns, calls attention to his celebrated markets and promises to do his best to satisfy their patrons He keeps the right kind of article to do that thing for when a man's hunger is appeased, the rest is easy

JEWELRY AND WATCHES —John B Miller has opened a new store, stocked with new goods of superior quality, as diamonds and all sorts of jewelry, watches, &c, on Washington street, next door above entrance to the OREGONIAN office. See his advertisement.

CIVILIZED NEIGHBORS —The Richmond Enquirer says that it prefers to have Yankees rather than English as its next door neighbors beyond the Potomac There is no reason to doubt but that this wish will be gratified The reason it alleges is that the Yankees are ... and ... barbarians ... to deal with Here ... it is ... remarkable that a chivalrous people who hold ... right to whip women and breed children for sale should prefer that their ... neighbors should be ignorant and semi barbarous The King of Dahomey would be the best conceivable neighbor for them

But as for having enemies "for ages" upon the north side of the Potomac—that is borrowing trouble of the future enormously We are engaged in a war in which they will conquer us, or we shall conquer them They are coming to the Lakes, or we are going to the Gulf The victory on one side or the other will be radical and final It will be a social as well as a military victory It will be like that of the Normans in England That has not left ages of enmity, nor will ours The Enquirer may take heart If the rebellion succeeds slavery will debauch the North and make it more than semi barbarous—it will barbarise it as thoroughly as it has the South itself If the Government triumphs liberty will radically reform the social system of the South and fully civilize it This result is in the very nature of the contest It is shown by the bitterness of the Enquirer, as it is in every expression, and the whole conduct of the rebellion Now has barbarism ever obliterated civilization upon a large scale? No! Why do the rebels so nervously denounce us as barbarians and extol themselves as highly civilized? Because they know this truth Unless, then, they can prove slavery to be the sign of an advanced and advancing civilization they forecast their own doom —Harper's Weekly

MILITARY MATTERS AGAIN —A letter from Washington, dated Dec 2d states that General Alvord is not to be relieved as a short time since rumored Steinberger is mustered out of the service, and Major Lugenbeel is ordered east and promoted All their talked of changes drop at ... ned Leander Holmes is appointed Commissioner of Enrollment, and Dr Warren Surgeon of Enrollment for Washington Territory Dr Warren died at Salem a few days before his appointment was made in Washington —Statesman

ONE WORD TO THE LADIES —We supposed that the ultima thule in the art had been reached some months ago, when we saw, for the first time, a Grover & Baker machine in full action , but now a lady friend, well posted in all matters pertaining thereto, informs us that an important part of the performance escaped our notice and, in proof thereof, exhibits to our astonished gaze her little boy s frock, embroidered with tasteful and fanciful designs, which she informs us was all done, stitching, embroidery and all, on the same machine This is certainly remarkable, but nevertheless true, and if all the purchasers of these celebrated machines are as enthusiastic as is our friend, the proprietors must be having one continual hymn of praise ascending in their behalf

HYDROPHOBIA —This dreadful malady is so rare in California that we have never before had to chronicle such an event But the dog that broke that big mirror of Heuston, Hastings & Co , the celebrated clothiers of Lick House, San Francisco, must certainly have been mad and no mistake We understand the above firm have had a magnificent mirror manufactured by Cameron & Whittier expressly to replace the one the dog broke

Playing the Bible—J H Siddons in one of the interesting "European Retrospects" he is contributing to the Boston Journal gives the following account of a singular stage representation he once saw in Paris

I was present five years ago at one of the most extraordinary dramatic performances that ever was produced even upon the daring French stage It partook of the ancient mysteries and moralities, wanting however, the excuse of the absence of a printed Bible for usurping the modern method for teaching the Christian religion I had gone into the Ambigu Comique, under the idea that I was about to witness some comedy, in which a rash youth, the hero, had sacrificed the love of an interesting heroine through his own dissipations and that the title of the piece had been selected as happily descriptive of the young gentleman s loss He had forfeited Paradise! When however I entered the theater a profound silence reigned I had great difficulty in getting a seat and was at length squeezed into the corner of a little box in the first circle through the medium of a silver key The first thing that met my eyes on the stage was the forbidden tree and Adam and Eve conversing! Adam's very first words arrested my attention 'La grace etait dans les pas, le ciel dans les yeux,' 'Grace was in all your steps' 'Why' exclaimed I aloud, "this is Milton' "Chut!" came in loud whispers from several mouths One added in a low voice, 'Oui Monsieur, c est votre Milton' From that moment I was absorbed Eve was represented by a lovely woman, whose golden hair fell to her feet Adam was a fine specimen of a youth Around the person of each was a fanciful arrangement of muslin, as if a cloud had accidentally fallen to fulfill the office which afterwards devolved on the fig leaves Adam left the scene, and Eve being alone, was soon accosted by the serpent, who wound about the trunk of the tree after a manner fearfully representing nature, but he soon cast his skin and sprung up from a trap door in the guise of a very handsome man, clothed in a white muslin robe, encircled in a golden girdle His ample hair was so arranged as to give it the appearance of horns, and gilt cloven feet decorated his nether extremities The whole process of the temptation, borrowed from Milton was admirably acted The crime is committed Suddenly the stage darkens, the Angel of the Lord appears, and, armed with a flaming sword, drives the offenders from the garden The second act introduces us to Cain and Abel—the sacrifices—the murder—Cain's remorse and Eve's grief Here Lord Byron was pressed into the service, and I followed the translations of his "Cain a Mystery" The third act represents a scene of bacchanalian revelry All Mesopotamia is drunk Vice in every form is depicted—woman's vanity, man's sensuality In the midst of the orgies (represented as they only can be in a large French theater with five hundred performers) a rushing noise is heard—a deep gloom gradually settles upon the revelers—the waters pour in—the people are frantic—dismayed—the deluge has begun! It continues, marvelously portrayed, until the whole scene is enveloped in a perfect darkness, and nothing is heard but shrieks, groans and discordant music The next act opens on a wild waste of waters perfectly calm Bodies and branches of trees float upon the surface, upon a jutting rock stand Adam and Eve, while the Evil One triumphantly points to the desolating scene and exclaims, "Voyez! Le resultat de ton trespas!" At that moment the Ark appears in the distance, the dove returns to it bearing the olive branch, the back scene opens and Salvator Mundi, standing on the globe, announces God's mercy and the redemption Exit Satan—and exeunt the audience, all the old women and young women piteously crying, beating their breasts, making the sign of the cross and ejaculating, "Mea culpa, mea maxima culpa!" Such things may shock very serious people, but I am not ashamed to confess that the whole morality affected me deeply It would be well if the stage were never applied to any worse purposes

Tea tasting—Few persons are aware that tea tasting is reduced to a regular profession—one which is as certain death to a man as the continued practice of opium-eating The success of the tea broker or taster depends upon the trained accuracy of his nose and palate, his experience in the wants of the market, and a keen business tact If he has these qualities in high cultivation, he may make a considerable sum per annum while he lives and die of ulceration of the lungs He overhauls a cargo of tea, classifies it, and determines the value of each sort In doing this he first looks at the color of the leaf and the general cleanliness of it He next takes a quantity of the herb in his hand and, breathing his warm breath upon it, he snuffs up the fragrance In doing this he draws into his lungs a quantity of irritating and stimulating dust, which is by no means wholesome Then, sitting down to the table in his office, in which is a long row of cups and a pot of hot water, he "draws" the tea and tastes the infusion In this way he classifies the different sorts to the minutest shade, marks the different prices, and is then ready to compare his work with the invoice The skill of these tasters is fairly a marvel, but the effect of the business on their health is ruinous They grow lean, nervous and consumptive At the end of a hard day's work they feel and act as fidgety and cross as if they had the hysterics

A Pleasant Fib from Monterey—In the history of Monterey, those of her inhabitants who were desirous of shaking off the mortal coil, were compelled to migrate to other sections. Tradition has it that an ancient patriarch who had outlived all earth's enjoyments and earnestly longed for "the other side of Jordan," journeyed to San Diego in order to avail himself of a noxious fever then prevailing—and was there gathered to his fathers In obedience to his dying request, his earthly tabernacle was duly forwarded to Monterey for interment No sooner, however, had the mournful cortege descended into the plains that stretch along the waters of the Rio Salinas, than life once more warmed up the contents of the deal box, and the remainder of that journey presented the unusual spectacle of a man walking at his own funeral—Monterey Gazette

A farmer having made his fortune, moved into the city to enjoy it, but his old love clung to him, and he indulged in a small way in the Agristic pursuit. Visiting his friends in the country, and relating his experience in city farming, he said

"I put outside my window a large box, filled it with mold and sowed it with seed What do you think came up?"

"Wheat, barley or oats"

"No, a policeman, who ordered me to remove it?"

Talking of false pretences a gentleman of this city recently married a woman reputed to be rich, who turned out to be poor, and some seven hundred dollars in debt, which debt he had to liquidate! She assured him, however, that the debt was contracted for dry goods which she bought to captivate him Think of a fish paying for the hook with which it is caught!

"Captain are you going to run your steam boat in this fog" a timid passenger asked of one of the Sound skippers "No sir; was the reply, 'we might as well try to drive a toad through a barrel of tar'

Mr Gout says people should never eat to excess If properly cooked a quarter of a lamb and a bunch of asparagus are as much as any person with sedentary habits should desire, even for a late dinner

Sheridan, speaking of his stay at a hotel, observed, 'I called for a bottle of wine that my landlord might live I abstained from drinking it that I might live, too

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENTION of the public to the fact that on the first of May 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of Income for the year 1863 and as the year 1863 is just ended it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue persons can only deduct expenses for repairs etc from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditure have been made For instance—a person receives $500 for rents from one use of that amount all that is necessary to repair such property from which rents were derived the same rule applies steam boats saw mills and other like property but all monies derived from interest on notes Bonds Mortgages, and from dividends must be returned as Income although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings steam boats etc

If persons will prepare their accounts in statements showing amounts received and those from which derived amount expended and for what purpose then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor a correct return can be made

PHILADELPHIA August 22, 1862

Messrs Jones & Evans—Well gentlemen, your Hoofland s German Bitters take in this It is you rades, some of whose names are fully cognizant of all the circumstances and have been for the last man s celebrated battery mand of Captain R B Ayres tendant upon his arduous duties vember last with inflammation seventy two days in the hospital great debility heightened by a n s then removed from the White city on board the steamer landed on the 28th of June Since that time I have been about as low as one could be and still retain a spark of vitality For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down it was immediately thrown up again

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach Life could not last under these circumstances and accordingly the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer frankly told me they could do no more for me and advised me to see a clergyman and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital Mr Frederick Steinbron of Sixth below Arch Street advised me as a forlorn hope to try your Bitters and kindly procured a bottle From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded and I am now thank God for it getting better Though I have taken but two bottles I have gained ten pounds and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian from the vicinity of Front Royal To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade Mr Malone restored to life
